Young at Heart – Tuesday 11 August

This month we are Whale Watching on the 'Spirit of Hervey Bay'. Departing at 8.30 am from the Boat Harbour at Urangan, we will enjoy a four hour cruise which includes morning tea. Tickets are $125 for adults (cash only please) and we already have about 30 in our group. It promises to be a great day with reports of whales heading to the area already. To book phone Jenny 0412928123 or email jenny@poonacommunity.com.au

The Spirit of Hervey Bay is a purpose-built, fast, and luxurious catamaran designed for whale watching in Hervey Bay, Queensland, Australia. Operating for over 35 years, the cruise specializes in humpback whale encounters in the calm waters of Platypus Bay along the shores of K'gari (Fraser Island). The vessel features six spacious viewing decks across multiple levels, underwater viewing rooms, a waterline platform, and a hydrophone system to listen to whale songs.

The Maryborough and wider Fraser Coast area is offering a solid winter mix at the moment, with the most dependable fishing coming from the estuaries, creeks and sheltered waters rather than exposed offshore grounds. Recent regional reports suggest the Great Sandy Straits are the standout option, especially for anglers chasing winter whiting, flathead and mud crabs. The stretch from Boonooroo through to Burrum Heads has been producing well, with whiting working the sandy patches and channels, while flathead are active around the drains, creek mouths and edges where bait is being pushed by the tide.

Closer to Maryborough, the Mary River and its connected creek systems are worth attention, particularly on the moving water. Bream and flathead remain reliable targets, and there is still a chance of threadfin salmon in the deeper bends, drains and colour-change lines where bait gathers. The best approach is to fish the tide changes rather than sitting through dead water. As the tide starts to push in, baitfish and prawns move back over the edges and into the smaller drains, and that is when flathead and bream tend to become more active. On the run-out, focus on creek mouths, drop-offs and deeper holes where bait is being flushed back into the main river.

Hervey Bay and the inshore grounds are also fishing well, although wind has limited some opportunities. Urangan Pier continues to be a useful land-based option, with reports of flathead, the occasional jewfish, school mackerel, queenfish and golden trevally around the deeper end and nearby structure. Around Point Vernon, Gatakers Bay, Woody Island and Burrum Heads, anglers are finding bream, winter whiting, queenfish and trevally, with the pelagic activity depending heavily on bait movement and water clarity. If the weather stays unsettled, the sheltered side of the Straits, the rivers and the creeks will be the safer and more consistent choices.

For a simple local plan, an early or late session around the Mary River edges, Susan River, lower creeks or the Boonooroo flats would be a good starting point. Use light gear and fresh bait such as yabbies, prawns or strips for whiting and bream, or cast soft plastics and small vibes along the drains and channel edges for flathead. If targeting threadfin, look for bait on the sounder or visible surface activity, then work deeper holes and current seams with vibration lures, live baits or soft plastics. Mud crabs are still one of the better local options, so setting pots in deeper creek holes, mangrove edges and feeder drains could be worthwhile, especially after a bit of fresh or on bigger tidal movement.

There are a few closures at the moment. Snapper and pearl perch are closed in Queensland east coast tidal waters from 15 July to 15 August each year, and Australian bass are closed in all Queensland tidal waters from 1 June to 31 August.

August 2026

Your Sandy Straits Rural

Volunteer Fire Brigade is hosting training for new recruits.

The brigade has many new firefighters who have worked diligently over the last year to become active fire fighters, under the guidance of the First Officer.

Your Poona Fire station has been hosting training for new trainees from all over the region. Training has included power point presentations, trainers from Maryborough office, brigade trainers, on line support work sheets, practical demonstrations, driving tuition and practical pumper exercises. The training will include a local hazard reduction burn.

The training has been supported by th First Officer and our volunteer support team whom have provided breakfast, morning and afternoon teas and lunch.

This has been a major and significant event for Poona as your brigade has become a centre of excellence for the region in training new recruits.

If you would like to assist and help out, please contact one of our many members.

Cheers, Secretary Marilyn
